Electronic Dance Music meets compelling improvisations

The Music on New Era associates with musical styles like Jazz-Fusion, Acid Jazz and Electronic Dance Music. It is influenced by artists such as Miles Davis, The Headhunters and Robert Glasper. The band has been playing together for thirty years, allowing the music itself to become their language. A few years ago, Robert started experimenting with an electronic groovebox giving a foundation and driving beat to New Era.

Rook reminds me of the better sides of 'Herbie Hancock'.
(Phillip McNeely, Cadence Magazine, USA)

Robert Rook began his jazz career in 1991 playing with the renowned Dutch guitarist Wim Overgaauw. At the time Robert also completed his study of mathematics at the University of Utrecht. He debuted as a bandleader in 1997 with the album "Introducing Robert Rook". Robert also made TV recordings for Dutch National Television and for LA Jazz-TV (Los Angeles) He performed at the North Sea Jazz Festival and played as soloist with the Jazz Orchestra of the Concertgebouw. His CDs sold thousands of copies in Japan. New Era is his ninth album.
